VOO's Expanding Visibility and Recognition Leads to a Nomination for Technology Innovation of the Year in the Middle East

5 December 2023

VOO has been nominated for The Aviator Middle East Awards in the Technology Innovation of the Year category, which recognizes an outstanding technological innovation introduced in the Middle East over the past year that provides a solution unique to the region. The Aviator Middle East Awards 2023 will take place on December 12 at the Jumeirah Mina A'Salam Hotel in Dubai and will bring together leading industry professionals from across the Middle East, as well as international guests and nominees.

This annual awards ceremony, designed to recognize excellence in the aviation achievements and contributions to the aviation community by honoring businesses that have surpassed the highest standards of accomplishment, will be held for the 17th time this year.

The Aviator Awards has established itself as the highest honor for excellence in the Middle East's aviation and aerospace industry over the past 12 months, gathering examples of outstanding leadership, high achievement, and featuring compelling and impactful success stories and development experiences at this esteemed event.

The inaugural The Aviator Awards took place in 2007 and capitalized on the breadth of insight and expertise of ITP's leading transportation media publications, including The Aviator, ArabianSupplyChain.com and Logistics Middle East. Since then, the Awards have recognized leading companies and figures in the Middle East aviation industry, including Dubai Airport CEO Paul Griffiths, Emirates President Sir Tim Clark and Qatar Airways CEO Akbar Al Baker.

VOO, a fully automated B2B marketplace that offers a specific toolkit for charter flight bookings, is a completely original in-house product based on the first-hand data and expertise of the founders – longtime aviation professionals and aviation industry natives. Direct online booking systems,
